Uncle Sam took a definite step Friday toward the start of construction of a gigantic air base in the Groveport area, Franklin County, when attorneys representing the government filed condemnation proceedings involving 1,583 acres of land in the area to be used for the training base.

Petitions were filed in the court of U. S. District Judge Mell G. Underwood, Columbus, and an immediate order of possession was granted by the judge. The question of values will be determined later, attorneys for the government pointed out.

The 1,583 acres taken over by the government will be purchased from 14 landowners.

Along Pickaway Land

The base will be located in Madison Township, Franklin County, all being south of Route 665 and west of Shook Road. The southernmost limit of the base will border on the northern extremity of Madison Township, Pickaway County.

Representing the government in the federal court action were Special Federal Attorney Eugene Mayl and District Attorney Calvin Crawford of the Dayton area.

Government engineers have been busy for the last several weeks in the Groveport area, but no announcement has come from Washington definitely assigning the base to the district. The condemnation proceedings means that the government is ready to start work.

For Air Corps Depot

The petition filed by the government representatives stated that the land would be used for an "air corps station and depot." It is believed that the base will be used to train bomber pilots and navigators and that between 3,000 and 5,000 cadets will be stationed there.

The project is reported to cost between $8,000,000 and $12,000,000.

ANNUAL C. C. MEETING TO BE HELD TUESDAY

Annual meeting of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce will be held next Tuesday at 6:15 p. m. in Betz' Restaurant.

During the meeting the annual report of Mack Parrett, secretary of the organization, will be read and a reorganization of officers and committees will be completed.

War Used As Wedge For All-Out German Assault Against Jews, Catholics

(Editor's Note: Pierre J. Huss, for eight years chief Berlin correspondent of International News Service, today begins the grimmest and most tragic chapter in the black history of the Nazi regime—its persecution of the Jews and the Catholic Church.

In this, the first of four installments, Huss for the first time tears the veil of mystery from Nazi fanatic Bormann, the pig-eyed Hitler stooge who has dedicated himself to the eradication of the Jewish and the Catholic Church into a "national institution" under the Brownshirt thumb.

When President Roosevelt some weeks ago revealed Germany's plan to expand its empire, there was the usual flood of formal denials from Berlin. The lying nature of these disclaimers is fully proved in this revealing series.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—One night in the winter of 1938, the Nazi Party staged a Bier Abend (beer evening) in the Kaiserhof Hotel in Berlin for a batch of ushers and waiters.

That meant the guzzling of much pilsener and heavy trays of sandwiches, all for the sake of rubbing elbows with some of the brown-shirted reichleiters and maybe a few gauleiters and small fry in the land. I know from weary experience it meant also a heavy dose of Nazi propaganda, or stuff like that, always squeezed in like the uninvited guest between the ifs and the ahs.

But an American newspaperman in Berlin like myself, head of a news agency hungry for news and operating in flashes of seconds and minutes, could no more refrain from showing up at a party like that Bier Abend than he could go off for a weekend. That is, unless he cared to risk getting scooped by the opposition, in which case

In reclassifying 1-H registrants (those more than 28 years old) the board asked for new information and received the following answer to one of their questionnaires, according to Board Chairman Louis Hanford:

"Not in good health physically; subject to frequent colds, short of breath and habitual tired feeling, coughing, eyes water and burn, sinus, catarrh, false teeth, bronchitis, enlargement and palpitation of heart, hearing in right ear bad, varicose veins in both legs, inverted ankle on right leg. Ingrown toenails on both feet, tumor on the right hand muscle, hemorrhoids, heartburn."

A postscript added: "I am being treated now by doctors who tell me there is a tendency to get worse."

Dunkel pleaded guilty to violation of the Draft Law.

Underwood said that he had trials scheduled for the first three days next week.

BIG OFFENSIVE IN BORNEO AREA MAJOR SUCCESS

12 Direct Blows Reported
By Batavia On Tokyo's
Fleet In Straits

VICTIMS ARE LISTED

Missiles Weighing 750
Pounds Strike Large
War Craft

BATAVIA, Jan. 23.—In one of the greatest aerial offensives of the Pacific war, Netherlands East Indies bombing and fighting planes today scored 12 direct hits on eight Japanese warships and transport vessels without suffering a single loss.

On the heels of Washington's announcement that huge reinforcements of heavy bombers are being "poured" by the United States into the theatre of combat, a formidable Dutch squadron roared out of its N. E. I. base to strike at the aggressor in the Straits of Macassar between Borneo and the Island of Celebes.

The attack was an overwhelming success.

A brief communiqué describing the operation, obviously designed to prevent the enemy from reinforcing detachments already landed in the Dutch East Indies, listed the victims as follows:

One large warship (which might be a battleship, battle cruiser or an aircraft carrier).

One heavy cruiser.

One additional cruiser.

One large transport.

One destroyer.

Two large transport ships.

One small transport.

The unidentified "warship" was struck by a 750-pound bomb and missiles of similar weight were dropped on the two cruisers and one large transport. Two hundred pounds bombs fell on the other ships.

All were officially chalked up as "direct hits," and it was regarded as a fair assumption that all the vessels were measurably damaged.

Thus the Dutch again meted out to the Japs the same type of aerial punishment inflicted at the outbreak of Pacific hostilities on the British battleship Prince of Wales and the battle cruiser Repulse.

Always guarded in their official announcements, the Dutch claimed no sinkings, but it was regarded unlikely that all of the ships attacked could have escaped complete destruction.

The Straits of Macassar form the southern arm of the Celebes Sea. The Jap ships probably were operating out of Mindanao in the Philippines.

DEMAND VOICED FOR MORE HELP FOR AUSTRALIA

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 23.—Australian newspapers called for an all-out effort against Japan today, and one paper, the Sydney Herald, demanded a stronger British war cabinet to discuss transport problems.

The newspapers unleashed their editorial guns as Japanese troops were declared to have occupied Rabaul and to have made landings on New Guinea and the Solomon Islands.

In an editorial the Melbourne Age commented:

"The disasters of the last six weeks must dissipate the last vestige of foolish complacency. The warning to Australians becomes blunter.

The film will be called "The New Spirit".

WASHINGTOM, Jan. 23—Japan's heavy attack has been repulsed with heavy losses in Bataan, the War Department disclosed today.

The Japanese, however, are continuing their wide scale offensive against Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces, and during the last 24 hours fighting was "extremely heavy," the War Department stated. Japan's troops have been "strongly reinforced."

The text of the communiqué follows:

"Philippine theatre: The Japanese are continuing to launch heavy attacks on Gen. MacArthur's positions on the Bataan Peninsula. During the last 24 hours the fighting has been extremely heavy. The enemy's assault troops have been strongly reinforced. Nevertheless all Japanese attacks have been repulsed with heavy losses. Apparently the enemy has adopted a policy of continuous assaults without regard to casualties, hoping by great superiority in numbers to crush the defending forces.

"Gen. MacArthur is in receipt of a message from Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell warmly congratulating him and his command for their magnificent defense of the Philippines.

"Reports from Mindanao disclose that the Japanese troops occupying Davao have organized a local military force composed of some 10,000 Japanese residents of that community."

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 23—Australian authorities announced today that 800 women and children were flown out of Rabaul when the New Britain Island capital was evacuated prior to the Japanese attack.

During the evacuation, it was stated, commercial air liners carrying more than double the usual number of passengers on each trip—brought out the women and children to places of safety on the mainland.

The last journeys were made after Japanese bombers had been over Rabaul for an hour.

The system of giving applicants immediate ratings is the first time in the state's history that such a procedure has been followed. The immediate need for men in the Pearl Harbor area has brought about the new program, according to Lovett.

MILLION MASKS ORDERED

Threat Serious

MELBOURNE, Jan. 23—With an attempted Japanese invasion of the Australian mainland in the making, the Commonwealth went on a full battle footing today.

As enemy troops landed on New Britain and in the Solomon Islands, the chief defensive outposts of Australia, the government frankly warned the population to expect fighting on their own north coast, ordered million gas masks from Great Britain as a defensive measure and took all necessary measures to meet the aggressor on his arrival.

"Australia is facing the most serious threat in her history," Army Minister Francis M. Forde said.

"But there must be no panic or defeatism—only determination to fight and throw back the enemy."

"We might have temporary reverses, but with our allies we will face the seas of the Japanese menace and win victory in this toga, not on the sea but in the workshops."

Will Resist

"Tojo (Jap Premier Hideki Tojo) has said he would show no mercy if we continued to resist. We will resist, and we will fight back to the uttermost of our capacity."

"If Japanese landings have been effected at Rabaul, two events of tremendous gravity will have occurred."

"Territory under Australian control will have been assailed, and for the first time our militia will have been in action."

"We are a tough people. We will not be influenced by Japanese threats or by the successes so far gained."

Forde said that the only officially known Japanese landing in the Bismarck Archipelago was at Kielo, 250 miles southeast of Rabaul.

CORN FARMERS WIN 10 PERCENT ACREAGE BOOST

John G. Boggs, Chairman Of County AAA, Discusses New Rulings

6,000 WILL BE ADDED

Kruse Speaks Of Latest Information Covering Situation

Pickaway County corn farmers will receive a 10 percent increase in their 1942 corn allotments announced last fall, according to John G. Boggs, chairman of the Pickaway County AAA committee.

The action follows upward revision in the national corn goal to replace withdrawals from ever-normal-granary supplies for increased livestock feeding operations to meet wartime demands. Chairman Boggs pointed out, Maintenance of corn supplies near present record levels also will provide added assurance of plenty in event of unforeseen emergencies.

"While the increase in corn acreage is being made to assure adequate feed supplies," Mr. Boggs said, "farmers can best meet overall food production demands in 1942 by maintaining a balanced agriculture through the most efficient use of their farm land."

Corn allotments announced last fall were approximately the same as 1941 allotments. Pickaway County's allotment was 60,631 acres. The ten percent increase will mean that approximately 6,000 more acres of corn may be planted in 1942.

The "usual corn acreage" for each farm, up to which a farmer may plant without loss of AAA program payments or privileges other than those for corn, would be established at 130 percent of the revised 1942 acreage allotment, the county AAA chairman explained.

"This usual acreage provision," Mr. Boggs said, "is similar to the one in effect in 1941, and is primarily for the benefit of individual farmers such as producers in some dairy areas where increased feed production is desirable in view of expanding dairy production."

Elmer F. Kruse, chairman of the Ohio AAA office, in commenting on the use of land to meet the recently announced 1942 farm production goals, said that farmers can make this record production and still maintain balanced agriculture, but they will have to put their acres on a budget to do it.

Acreage allotments on surplus crops, goals for needed farm products and minimum soil conserving acreage requirements for farms cooperating with the AAA farm program provide the basis for the individual farm's budget of land.

The venerable Jerome Peters of St. Paul, well along in his 94th years as age counts, was over here at headquarters the other day. Told us that he had a little extra change in the bank and had arranged to let Uncle Sam have the use of it for awhile. Does not like so well the idea of this war stuff, but there is just one thing to do, he thinks, and that is to give those people over there who like to fight so well, the good trimming they need and the one they will remember for always.

Mr. Peters in his early days taught school out in Nebraska when Indians in plenty formed a part of the population of the plains. Said he always permitted his pupils to go to the windows of the school room to see the tribes of Reds when on the march and passing the school. The novelty of school teaching out on the plains among the Indians soon wore off and the thoughts of home brought him here and to continue his teaching. Among the schools he taught in his home township, Madison, was on Robst Hill, near Marcy, when he had 27 boys enrolled and these, six are living. Of the girls, many of

URBANA RELIEF CHIEF MAY BE FORCED OUT

URBANA, Jan. 23—Removal of Miss Lucy Stewart as county relief director because of her alleged inhuman treatment of relief clients was demanded today by the Champaign County clerks and trustees association.

"Give us a new relief director or we'll toss the relief problem right back into the county commissioners' lap," J. D. Wiant, Goschen Township official, asserted.

Various reports of club officials and committee chairmen were heard by the shareholders who gathered in the offices of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

The trustees conducted their meeting at the airport and army cantonment, which is believed to be soon, to be established north and south of Circleville. Cooperation with Army officials was completed by the club officials.

The club is mapping its 1942 operation with an eye on the present war. Officials expect the course to be called on for golf for soldiers who are expected to be stationed at the airport and army cantonment, which is believed to be soon, to be established north and south of Circleville. Cooperation with Army officials was completed by the club officials.

The department increased the egg goal 200 million dozen to 4,200 million dozen. No changes were made in poultry meat quo-

CORN FARMERS WIN 10 PERCENT ACREAGE BOOST

John G. Boggs, Chairman Of County AAA, Discusses New Rulings

6,000 WILL BE ADDED

Kruse Speaks Of Latest Information Covering Situation

Pickaway County corn farmers will receive a 10 percent increase in their 1942 corn allotments announced last fall, according to John G. Boggs, chairman of the Pickaway County AAA committee.

The action follows upward revision in the national corn goal to replace withdrawals from ever-normal-granary supplies for increased livestock feeding operations to meet wartime demands, Chairman Boggs pointed out. Maintenance of corn supplies near present record levels also will provide added assurance of plenty in event of unforeseen emergencies.

"While the increase in corn acreage is being made to assure adequate feed supplies," Mr. Boggs said, "farmers can best meet overall food production demands in 1942 by maintaining a balanced agriculture through the most efficient use of their farm land."

Corn allotments announced last fall were approximately the same as 1941 allotments. Pickaway County's allotment was 60,631 acres. The ten percent increase will mean that approximately 6,000 more acres of corn may be planted in 1942.

The "usual corn acreage" for each farm, up to which a farmer may plant without loss of AAA program payments or privileges other than those for corn, would be established at 130 percent of the revised 1942 acreage allotment, the county AAA chairman explained.

"This usual acreage provision," Mr. Boggs said, "is similar to the one in effect in 1941, and is primarily for the benefit of individual farmers such as producers in some dairy areas where increased feed production is desirable in view of expanding dairy production."

Elmer F. Kruse, chairman of the Ohio AAA office, in commenting on the use of land to meet the recently announced 1942 farm production goals, said that farmers can make this record production and still maintain balanced agriculture, but they will have to put their acres on a budget to do it.

Acreage allotments on surplus crops, goals for needed farm products and minimum soil conserving acreage requirements for farms cooperating with the AAA farm program provide the basis for the individual farm's budget of land.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 23

—The agriculture department today revised upward its 1942 production goals on eggs, hogs, corn, oil-bearing crops, rice, dry beans and vegetables. The action was necessary, the announcement said, because of events since Pearl Harbor.

The department increased the egg goal 200 million dozen to 4,200 million dozen. No changes were made in poultry meat quotas.

Because of increases in goals for hogs and chickens, larger feed supplies will be needed. The department said it would convert some government-owned wheat into livestock and poultry feeds at prices comparable to corn.

The Temptation of Jesus

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International & Uniform Lesson on the above topic for January 25 is Matthew 4:1-11; Mark 1:12, 13; Luke 4:1-13, the Golden Text being Hebrews 4:15, "For we have . . . One that hath been in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin.")

THE TEMPTATION of Jesus is thought to have taken place in the spring of A. D. 27. The place has never been definitely located, but it was in a wilderness, probably on the west side of the Jordan river, about eight miles or so from the place where He was baptized. Mount Quarantine rises 1,500 feet almost perpendicularly from the plain of Jordan, and it is here, according to tradition, that He was taken by Satan to see the world spread out at His feet. It is not important where the temptation did take place, however.

After His baptism by John the Baptist, Jesus retired to a quiet place to commune with Himself and His God before beginning His teaching and preaching. For 40 days and 40 nights He fasted, prayed and probably planned. At the end of that time He must have been weary and very hungry. And that was when temptation came to Him. Satan came to Him and, knowing He was hungry, asked Him why He did not turn the stones at His feet into bread. If He really was the Son of God, and so satisfy His hunger. Jesus answered by quoting Scripture, Deut. 8:3: "It is written," He said, "that man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

First Temptation Overcome

Physical hunger is hard to bear, but the spirit of God in us enables us to withstand it if it is wrong for us to eat, and in this case Jesus felt the time had not come for Him to satisfy His hunger. Temptation number one was overcome.

The Evil One then took our Lord into the holy city of Jerusalem, seating Him on a pinnacle of the temple. It was the time when the massive gates of the temple were opening and the priests' silver trumpets were summoning the people to begin a new day by ap-

Speakers on the general program will appear in University Hall either at 11 a. m. or at 4 p. m. An exception to the time schedule for the general program is the time set for quadrilles and square dancing in the Armory at 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Thursday will be Grange Day, the Ohio State Grange will sponsor the afternoon and evening program in University Chapel. Afternoon speakers are being secured to discuss the place of the grange in the agricultural program in war times and problems of credit in times of changing prices. John F. Hull of the Farm Credit Administration of Louisville, will be one of the speakers. In cooperation with the Rural Sociology Department of the University, the Grange will also sponsor the 4 o'clock lecture, to be given by Lowry Nelson of the University of Minnesota. Musical groups from the county granges will furnish the evening program again this year.

The Temptation of Jesus

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for January 25 is Matthew 4:1-11; Mark 1:12, 13; Luke 4:1-13, the Golden Text being Hebrews 4:15. "For we have . . . One that hath been in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin.")

pearing before their Lord. Satan suggested that Jesus cast Himself down, as it is written, "He shall give his angels charge over Thee: On their hands shall they bear Thee up, Lest haply Thou dash Thy foot against a stone." Even the Devil can quote scripture to his purpose, as the saying goes.

By such a miracle Jesus could accomplish His mission, Satan implied, and make people believe in Him, by one spectacular act. But the Lord said, "Again it is written, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God."

The third temptation was even more diabolical. Taking Him to an exceedingly high mountain, he showed Jesus "all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them."

"All these things will I give Thee, if Thou wilt fall down and worship me," Satan said.

How many more mortals have faced this temptation—giving way to the lust for power and influence. But our Lord answered calmly, but it must have been with some heat, "Get thee hence, Satan, for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve."

Angels Minister to Him

At this Satan left Him, where St. Mark tells us, wild beasts were with Him, but did not harm Him, and the angels of God came and ministered unto Him.

We, too, are subject to temptations. Not often spectacular ones like those of our Lord, but every day many smaller ones nag at us to give way to them. How can we find strength to overcome them?

Jesus told us how when He was here on earth. In the prayer He taught us we say, "Lead us not into temptation," meaning that we ask God not to allow us to come into the path of overpowering temptation. Again, toward the end of His life, He said, "Watch and pray," that we shall not fall into temptation.

These things can we do daily. And we can put the temptations that come to us right out of our minds. If we dwell on them, dallying with them, so to speak, it is much harder to win the battle for the right. We must turn our backs on them, say, as Jesus did, "Get thee hence, Satan."

The Evil One then took our Lord into the holy city of Jerusalem, seating Him on a pinnacle of the temple. It was the time when the massive gates of the temple were opening and the priests' silver trumpets were summoning the people to begin a new day by ap-

OPEN LETTERS

TO W. E. WALLACE

SIR: I was pleased to read the other evening of your selection by members of city council to fill the vacancy existing in the councilman-at-large lineup. Your business ability, your interest in civic affairs, and your length of residence in Circleville, which should give you a complete understanding of Circleville's problems add up to provide you a splendid background for success as a councilman. I hope that you will do everything in your power to assist your colleagues in their effort to give Circleville a business-like administration.

CIRCUITEER.

TO PARKING VIOLATORS

MOTORISTS: The mayor and police department have been lenient in their program of educating you to the new system of parallel parking on Court Street. They report that the system has been fairly successful and after the first day not many motorists were given tickets. Those who were tagged merely were warned about the new system of parking, some of them made to pay a dime to the Infantile Paralysis Fund, and their tickets torn up. Some of you, however, still insist on double parking or parking overtime in the business section, a condition which cannot be permitted if the new system of parking is to work successfully. Most of you will admit that there is much more room on Court Street since the parallel parking became effective, but it takes the cooperation of everyone to make the system operate smoothly.

CIRCUITEER.

TO REGISTRANTS

Men: Recent war developments and new draft law regulations have brought a fear in some of you that you are about to be drafted. Consequently many of you are going to members of the local draft board individually in an effort to learn your status or to ask that you be deferred. Members of the local draft board serve without pay and the time they spend on Selective Service work is donated. For your convenience the local board maintains an office staff in the Court House. It is your privilege to call there at any time, and if you have problems which you wish to bring before the board, you can, at any time, make an appointment.

CIRCUITEER.

TO WAR VETERANS

LEGIONNAIRES: Congratulations go to Howard Hall Post, American Legion, for offering its services to the Draft Board if they are needed in handling the scheduled February 16 registration of men between ages of 20 and 44 who have not previously signed up for Army service. The post's willingness to cooperate is well taken by the Selective Service Board.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

NOBODY asks for a reduction in the amount of stuff that Uncle Sam buys for his own war purposes and to help the affiliated anti-Axis countries, provided that that's what the buying really is done for. There are critics, though, who express suspicions, at least, that a sizable proportion of it isn't genuinely done for our own associates' wartime benefit, but simply is so misrepresented by the purchasing agencies, management, to fool the tax-paying public.

That's one of the suggestions embodied in the report of Chairman Harry S. Truman's senatorial defense investigating committee, calling for separation of all $1-per-year men from the arms program unless they sever their private business ties, the theory being that these private ties influence them in placing the government's orders.

The assertion also is made that we're paying excessive prices even for military supplies that we actually do need, only, say the complainants, we oughtn't to be overcharged for them.

Chairman Alva Adams of a senatorial appropriations subcommittee, which has spent considerable time delving into the subject, recently spoke very bitterly concerning it. Our war production, he charged, is being conducted with "uncalculable waste."

Money's Worth?

It isn't that the Colorado sojourner wants us to arm ourselves up to the limit and to help the other democracies, but he says that, for what we spend, we're entitled to get our money's worth. He doesn't believe that we do. If we did, he argues in his committee report, either the bill would be smaller, or else, if it stays at its present figures, we'll get a heap more of the necessities of warfare than we're getting at present.

It all amounts to a charge that we're being profited on, and that our buying agencies are acquiescent.

The case hasn't been proved and it's mighty hard to prove just now, for the minute anyone makes such an assertion, he's denounced as a copperhead or a Quisling or an Axis propagandist or some such thing, and nobody likes to be so classified.

That there's been mismanagement evidently is recognized by the administration, as more than indicated by its reorganization of production, with Donald Nelson as the new czar of it.

It doesn't necessarily follow, though, that the $1-per-yearlings are anything worse than fairly disgruntled by the magnitude of the situation dumped on them so unceremoniously. As for a $1-per-yearling's private business connections, how's he going to sever them completely?

The $1-per-yearling quits his private job, but undoubtedly he still has some personal holdings with the concern he previously was associated with, and presumably continues to draw a bit of interest on them, but he can't very well turn them all over to the Red Cross or some similar outfit and start in living on an annual $1, literally. Even a $1-per-yearling couldn't survive long on that stipend.

For $1-per-yearlings I have a certain amount of sympathy.

In the Middle

They make big sacrifices and then are bawled out on the ground that they're making them for selfish purposes. And if they're blamed for incompetency only, it can't be pretty painful to a chap to be called incompetent when he's trying so hard to make himself patriotically useful.

It's popular in Washington to preach economy in non-defense, civilian spending. That is, it's popular except among the folk who have been doing that kind of spending hitherto—social reliefers, et cetera. They resent it like everything, but it's O. K. with the emergency aggregation. That crowd wants all else cut to the bone, and cheers pies for it to the new czar of it.

Hint at war economy, though, and heaven help you!

Instantly arises the chorus, "This is a heck of a time to economize!"

Even Senator Adams' thesis that, while war spending's all right, yet we want our money's worth, isn't very kindly taken to.

If there's been inefficiency in the handling of our war effort, that's a different thing. Into military production, it's the unqualified consensus that we must put all the jazz that we're capable of. Let it cost what it may, let's go the limit. That's so nearly unanimous that the dissenters are scarcely audible.

Rotarians heard an interesting talk by Judge Charles Dresbach who told of conditions in Manchuria and India.

OPEN LETTERS

TO W. E. WALLACE

SIR: I was pleased to read the other evening of your selection by members of city council to fill the vacancy existing in the councilman-at-large lineup. Your business ability, your interest in civic affairs, and your length of residence in Circleville, which should give you a complete understanding of Circleville's problems add up to provide you a splendid background for success as a councilman. I hope that you will do everything in your power to assist your colleagues in their effort to give Circleville a business-like administration.

TO PARKING VIOLATORS

MOTORISTS: The mayor and police department have been lenient in their program of educating you to the new system of parallel parking on Court Street. They report that the system has been fairly successful and after the first day not many motorists were given tickets. Those who were tagged merely were warned about the new system of parking, some of them made to pay a dime to the Infantile Paralysis Fund, and their tickets torn up. Some of you, however, still insist on double parking or parking overtime in the business section, a condition which cannot be permitted if the new system of parking is to work successfully. Most of you will admit that there is much more room on Court Street since the parallel parking became effective, but it takes the cooperation of everyone to make the system operate smoothly.

TO REGISTRANTS

MEN: Recent war developments and new draft law regulations have brought a fear in some of you that you are about to be drafted. Consequently many of you are going to members of the local draft board individually in an effort to learn your status or to ask that you be deferred. Members of the local draft board serve without pay and the time they spend on Selective Service work is donated. For your convenience the local board maintains an office staff in the Court House. It is your privilege to call there at any time, and if you have problems which you wish to bring before the board, you can, at any time, make an appointment.

TO WAR VETERANS

LEGIONNAIRES: Congratulations go to Howard Hall Post, American Legion, for offering its services to the Draft Board if they are needed in handling the scheduled February 16 registration of men between ages of 20 and 44 who have not previously signed up for Army service. The post's willingness to cooperate is well taken by the Selective Service Board.

Money's Worth?

It isn't that the Colorado sojourners want us to arm ourselves to the limit and to help the other democracies, but he says that, for what we spend, we're entitled to get our money's worth. He doesn't believe that we do. If we did, he argues in his committee report, either the bill would be smaller, or else, if it stays at its present figures, we'll get a heap more of the necessities of warfare than we're getting at present.

It all amounts to a charge that we're being profiteered on, and that our buying agencies are acquiescent.

The case hasn't been proved and it's mighty hard to prove just now, for the minute anyone makes such an assertion, he's denounced as a copperhead or a Quisling or an Axis propagandist or some such thing, and nobody likes to be so called.

That there's been mismanagement evidently is recognized by the administration, as more than indicated by its reorganization of production, with Donald Nelson as the new czar of it.

It doesn't necessarily follow, though, that the $1-per-yearings are anything worse than fairly disgruntled by the magnitude of the situation dumped on them so unceremoniously. As for a $1-per-yearling's private business connections, how's he going to sever them?

The $1-per-yearling quits his private job, but undoubtedly he still has some personal holdings with the concern he previously was associated with, and presumably continues to draw a bit of interest.

Senator Truman

That's one of the suggestions embodied in the report of Chairman Harry S. Truman's senatorial defense investigating committee, calling for separation of all $1-per-year men from the arms program unless they sever their private business ties, the theory being that these private ties influence them in placing the government's orders.

The assertion also is made that we're paying excessive prices even for military supplies that we actually do need, only, say the complainants, we oughtn't to be overcharged for them.

Chairman Alvin Adams of a senatorial appropriations subcommittee, which has spent considerable time delving into the subject, recently spoke very bitterly concerning it. Our war production, he charged, is being conducted with "uncalculable waste."

TO AMERICANS

ALL: Few Americans know more than a few lines of "The Star-Spangled Banner" by heart with any certainty. Others know the first stanza and no more. This would be a good time to memorize a couple of verses clearly and completely. The most important one is usually set down as the fourth and last. But the whole song is seldom sung, and seldom needs to be. The first and fourth alone make a complete and glorious national anthem. Here's the important one. Cut it out.

Oh, thus be it ever when free men shall stand

Between their loved homes and the war's desolation;

Blest with victory and peace may the heaven-rescued land

Praise the Power that hath made and preserved us a nation.

Then conquer we must, when our cause is just,

And this be our motto, "In God is our trust."

And the Star-Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave

O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brave!

It might be useful, too, to learn once and for all the whole of "My Country 'Tis of Thee." There are one or two really beautiful stanzas, which mean more to a people whose liberty is at stake than to those who are taking liberty for granted in a soft and easy time. And "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean" has a good old rousing tilt to its words as well as its tune.

CIRCUITEER.

TO THE NEW LIBRARY BOARD

BOARD MEMBERS: When you meet with members of the Monumental Association next week you will be faced with the problem of discussing operating the library during the spring months on an extremely scanty budget. You have made numerous appeals to county commissioners for assistance in keeping the county book truck in operation. At Wednesday night's session, City Council passed an appropriation budget in which no allotment whatsoever was made for the library. To continue the high standards of the library it will be necessary to buy some new books. A library with out of date editions on its shelves is almost as bad as no library at all. Suspension of the services of the county book truck should come before the book purchase program is too seriously curtailed.

The Middle

They make big sacrifices and then are bawled out on the ground that they're making them for selfish purposes. And if they're blamed for incompetency only, it can't be pretty painful to a chap to be called incompetent when he's trying so hard to make himself patriotic useful.

It's popular in Washington to preach economy in non-defense, civilian spending. That is, it's popular except among the folk who have been doing that kind of spending hitherto—social reliefers, et cetera. They resent it like everything, but it's O. K. with the emergency aggregation. That crowd wants all else cut to the bone, and cheers pleas for it to the echo.

Hints at war economy, though, and heaven help you!

Instantly arises the chorus, "This is a heck of a time to economize!" Even Senator Adams' thesis that while war spending's all right, yet we want our money's worth, isn't very kindly taken to.

If there's been inefficiency in the handling of our war effort, that's a different thing. Into military production, it's the unqualified consensus that we must put all the jazz that we're capable of. Let it cost what it may, let's go the limit. That's so nearly unanimous that the dissenters are scarcely audible.

Great Progress in Industrial Surgery Made in Recent Years

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A SPECIALTY in medical practice which has made great strides in the past few years is that of industrial surgery. It was, of course, natural in a great industrial al age that this should be so, but most people do not realize, I believe, how specialized a department it is.

Dr. Cledenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

For instance, I find in the magazine which devotes itself to this specialty, Industrial Medicine, the following subjects listed as the ones which have received the largest amount of attention in the industrial field of medicine in the past few years: Dust, lead, silicosis, skin diseases, carbon monoxide, gases, eyes, ventilation, air conditioning, benzene, tuberculosis, workman's compensation and industrial hygiene. A subject which does not appear on this list, but which nevertheless takes up a great deal of the industrial surgeon's time, is burns.

He had a real man-sized job in educating the workers to take first-aid kits with them wherever they went and was teaching them how to apply emergency first-aid treatment under all conditions.

I went to the hospital and found that in putting up this plant, they had very sensibly erected the fire house first and the hospital second. It was a well-equipped hospital with all the equipment necessary for first-aid emergency treatment, and also for treatment of common ailments such as colds, sore throats and so forth.

I was especially impressed with the work of the industrial surgeon recently when I visited, with the surgeon in charge, one of the large U. S. ordnance plants that is being built. I never saw anyone more alert and interested and full of his job, and with a more intelligent grasp of his problems and responsibilities.

Treatment of Burns

One thing that impressed me with the specialization in industrial surgery and also the common sense with which this young man met his problems was in a discussion of the subject of burns. He said that he had a number of burns which were both chemical and heat burns, and he had found out that unless you treat them as chemical burns first, they do not heal.

I asked him how he treated the chemical burns and he said that the first thing he wanted to find out was whether the chemical that did the burning was an acid or an alkali. If it was an acid, he taught the men to put baking soda solution on the burn immediately. If it was an alkali, he taught them to use vinegar and vinegar-soaked gauze on the burn as soon as possible.

He was not only technical knowledge of the condition, but also the ability to get down to ordinary, every-day life in telling

FIRST OF FOUR MEN'S PROGRAM GIVEN FOR CLUB

The first of a series of four numbers of the Talent Contest of Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood was given Thursday at the Parish House under the direction of George C. Griffith, George Himrod and K. J. Herrmann.

The judges for the contest are F. K. Blair, W. E. Hilyard and Leslie L. Pontius; the basis for judging being 20 percent each for participation, presentation, entertainment, uniqueness and information; penalty for over time 1 percent for each minute over one hour.

The next number will be Thursday evening, February 5, and will be under the direction of R. L. Brehmer, Luther Bower and Charles Eltel.

The last evening's program was staged as a practice pretense, opening with the group singing "The More We Get Together," changing the wording of the text as a plea to the judges for their favorable consideration of that which they were about to hear.

After much contention as to what the program should be, the features in regular order were: group singing of the "Old Gray Mare 'Aint What She Used To Be," worded to cast reflections on the future programs; then a chalk talk by George C. Griffith; a take off on the cooking school by George Himrod; this being followed by the group singing "Whistle While You Work" and "I'm Afraid to Go Home in the Dark." George C. Griffith then, by the aid of drawing, gave a talk on locations in the Far-East War zone; Elmer Howard next came on with his special appeal to one of the judges by giving a resume of most interesting facts on transportation. Next came K. J. Herrmann with his explanation of the Medical-Health Division of the Civilian Defense. The one hour program was rounded out by the group singing "Home on the Range."

STARS SAY—

For Friday, January 23

AN INTERESTING and lively, possibly eventful, day is forecast from a chain of unusual or conflicting planetary aspects. There is sign of strange, perplexing and contradictory situations to be manipulated to success and satisfaction by good judgment, rationalizing, and finesse rather than emotional or high-tensioned behavior. Business as well as professional, social and domestic relations are under fluctuating influences and need wise understanding and care. With this there is prospect of a favorable conclusion to all problems.

GEORGE RAFT GUEST

George Raft appears on the Charles Martin "Playhouse" Friday, January 30, at 9 p. m., in a dramatization of one of his outstanding screen successes. He will be supported by a cast of topnotch radio actors. Following Raft on the "Playhouse" will be Merle Oberon February 6. Original music is composed and conducted by Maestro Ray Block.

HOLLYWOOD AT WAR

Here in Hollywood where all the extravagant adjectives have been overused and radio programs a simple routine, the motion picture industry and radio are joining forces for the Vox Pop broadcast of "Hollywood At War" on Monday, at 8, which promises to be one of the biggest air shows of its kind to originate from the film capital.

Parks Johnson and Wally Butworth, the genial Vox Poppers, will be heard in one of their most unusual defense programs as they interview leading screen stars on Sound Stage No. 7 during an "end-of-shooting" party at Columbia Pictures, where the film "Trinidad" has just been completed.

After much contention as to what the program should be, the features in regular order were: group singing of the "Old Gray Mare 'Aint What She Used To Be," worded to cast reflections on the future programs; then a chalk talk by George C. CONTRACT BRIDGE

REVERSING A FACTOR

ORDINARILY an opening lead of the suit bid by the ultimate dummy is the worst lead in the hand, because it enables the declarer to establish that suit and use it to discard losers in other suits from his own holding. But, if indications are that the suit is inordinately long and strong, a lead of it may constitute the best defense. Thereby you may break communication between the declarer and the dummy, using up his only cards in the suit before your own side's trumps have been taken out.

WEST

case West led his spade A, then the club 10, which South ruffed.

The heart K knocked out the A, and now anything that East returned meant a laydown for South, who could drop the trumps and then score his solid winners.

West at the other table led the Diamond 9 to the 10. The declarer knocked out the Heart A with the K, and East returned the diamond 5 to the A. With no way to re-enter dummy after the last hostile trumps were taken out, the declarer had to lose two spade tricks, so was down one.

Walters-Dreisbach Vows Exchanged Thursday Eve

Chaplain Of Ohio Senate Reads Ceremony

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Circleville and Pickaway County friends of the families will be interested in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Virginia Dreisbach, 48 Southwood Avenue, Columbus, and Mr. Festus M. Walters of Circleville, Route 2. Miss Dreisbach is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley M. Dreisbach of Columbus, former residents of Pickaway County. Mr. Walters, who is probation officer for Pickaway County, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Walters of Jackson Township.

Miss Dreisbach and Mr. Walters were married Thursday, January 22, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of the Rev. E. Stacy Matheny, pastor of Independent Protestant Church of Columbus and Chaplain of the Ohio Senate. The immediate families of the bride and bridegroom were present for the impressive single ring service.

An early spring model poudre blue frock and matching off-the-face hat was chosen by the bride for her wedding. She wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias and used black accessories.

The former Miss Dreisbach, a 1936 graduate of Pickaway Township High School and later of Office Training School, Columbus, has been employed for the last four years as secretary in the law firm of Addison, Isaly and Addison of Columbus. She is a member of the Alpha Xi Chapter of Delta Theta Tau Sorority.

Mr. Walters was graduated in 1933 from Jackson Township High School.

Immediately after the ceremony, the new Mr. and Mrs. Walters left for a short wedding trip. They are planning to reside in Circleville.

STARS SAY—

For Friday, January 23

AN INTERESTING and lively, possibly eventful, day is forecast from a chain of unusual or conflicting planetary aspects. There is sign of strange, perplexing and contradictory situations to be manipulated to success and satisfaction by good judgment, rationalizing, and finesse rather than emotional or high-tensioned behavior.

Business as well as professional, social and domestic relations are under fluctuating influences and need wise understanding and care. With this there is prospect of a favorable conclusion to all problems.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which a great deal depends on their own reasonable, restrained, poised and sagacious management of affairs that may be unlooked for, unusual, even peculiar and challenging. Curious or surprising events may upset the equilibrium when stability, cleverness and sound tactics would result in moderate benefits. Personal as well as business, social, domestic, cultural and sentimental culminations are dependent on prudence and wise counsel. Use these in moments of peril or sorrow.

A child born on this day should have conflicting traits of character, with much depth and stability as well as many emotional excitements and proclivities. Its affairs may fluctuate, but in the end may be secure.

Red Cross Unit Adds $10,036 to U. S. Fund

Bank Draft Mailed Friday To Washington D. C. By Pickaway Chapter

SUM $3,307 OVER QUOTA

Chairman Thanks All Who Aided In Collecting Splendid Amount

A bank draft for $10,036.67 was mailed Friday to the Red Cross national headquarters in Washington D. C. by Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker, treasurer of the Pickaway County Chapter.

The check was mailed to national headquarters after Mrs. Hunsicker and Carl C. Leist, Pickaway County Red Cross Chapter chairman, completed figures on the local war relief fund campaign and announced that the total amount received was $11,807.85.

Of the total sum, 15 percent, or $1,771.18, will be retained by the local chapter for Red Cross work in the city and county, leaving $10,036.67 for the relief of American soldiers and their families outside the county.

City and county schools contributed $950 to the campaign, with $600 coming from the county schools and $350 from the city schools. Other contributions mounted to $9,086.

The local chapter's quota was $8,500, leaving a total of $3,307.85 collected above the amount for which the county was asked.

Solicitors Praised

Chairman Leist praised the work of the local Red Cross solicitors, all those who assisted with the campaign and those who gave liberal contributions to make the drive a success.

Actual production work by Red Cross sewing and knitting committees probably will start within the next week, Chairman Leist said. Material for the local committees already has been ordered from headquarters, he reported.

The War Relief Fund drive opened January 5 and has been under way since that date, although main solicitation closed one week after the opening day.

JURY STUDIES MCQUADE COMPENSATION APPEAL

The jury was deliberating Friday afternoon on whether Mrs. Ellen McQuade is entitled to participate in the Industrial Compensation fund.

The case, in which Mrs. McQuade is seeking compensation for the death of her husband, Roy, from the Industrial Commission, went to the jury shortly before noon and jurors recessed for lunch without reaching a decision. They again came at 1:30 p.m.

McQuade, an employee of the E. E. Clifton Parts and Service Company, died as the result of injuries he received when a motorcycle he was riding crashed on the Kingston Pike outside Circleville. Question for the jury to decide is whether or not McQuade was on an errand for his company when the accident happened.

"Churchill must be aware," the Sydney Herald said, "of the overriding concern of the peoples of the empire over the immediate perils confronting the new allied front in the Pacific."

"Whatever faith may be reposed in Churchill himself, there is little to induce confidence in many close to him. He cannot fail to recognize that assurances that everything is being done to remedy the Malay situation are no longer sufficient to allay public disquiet."

"There has been gross underestimation of the enemy and a lamentable failure to apply coordinated naval and air tactics even with the forces available."

"The whole empire is determined there must be no more mistakes. The British war cabinet must be strengthened, giving Churchill first class lieutenants and making provision for giving the dominions a vote, at least Australia, in planning the basic war strategy."

MIKADO LANDS TROOPS ON TWO PACIFIC ISLANDS

Australia's national holiday on January 26, commemorating foundation of the Commonwealth, was cancelled because of the situation.

A series of official pronouncements indicated that Japanese forces have occupied Rabaul on New Britain Island, 800 miles from the Australian mainland, and also have effected landings on the shores of New Guinea and in the nearby Solomon Island.

Army Minister Forde told the nation:

"The attack on Rabaul must be interpreted by Australians as the first stage of a movement to attack Australia."

Landings Reported

An official communiqué issued by Forde and Air Minister Arthur Drakeford said Japanese landings had been reported on New Guinea and in the Solomon Islands.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: An Australian broadcast picked up in New York by NBC quoted Forde as saying: "For the first time in history, Australian territory has been attacked and foreign invaders are trying to gain a footing on our shores. The Australian militia is probably engaged in battle for the first time."

"The enemy intends to get bombing bases within reach of the Australian mainland. We can be certain that just as the day for the treacherous attack on Hawaii was marked down on Japanese plans, so is the planned attack on Australian cities and towns. There can be no doubt that we shall hear the roar of cannon along the coast of this country."

Events in the Pacific swept the European war from the front pages of the Australian press. The population was puzzled by speed of the Jap advance and the apparent lack of British fleet activity in hampering enemy progress to the south.

While awaiting results of air reconnaissance to clarify the New Guinea situation, all strategic points in Australia were hastily strengthened, while newspapers demanded that the government immediately instruct the populace as to their war duties.

On all sides were heard expressions of grim determination to smash any attempt at mainland invasion.

The Nazis had requisitioned the famous Yellow Room, done in silk tapestry alternated with white marble. Huge chandeliers gave the added touch of official solemnity, and here in this medley of old-fashioned glass and glory the Nazis staged many an ornate banquet to important guests from within or without the land.
